

給新生的信

LETTER TO NEW STUDENTS

恭喜您們的中文學習

Congratulations to the learning of Chinese language

語言盛載着文化

Language carries the culture.

歡迎你認識燦爛的中華文化

I also welcome you to the beauty of Chinese culture I embrace

To begin with, I show the appreciation to your motivation to learn Chinese. It will be a good journey with a broader horizon.

After the trial, we will continue to walk together. After 5 lessons, a Chinese calligraphy will be selected and sent to you as an appreciation and an encouragement (AES) to overcome learning barriers, see next page. We will also review the learning outcome using reflection and goal setting process (RGF), in another words, “look back and improve learning”.

I see language learning as a life-long investment to all and we will never lose – outputs come with inputs – most importantly, we acquire the ability to communicate with people in their languages and to resolve problem. I apparently work with an India-based NGO on educational project to achieve “education for all” and allocate time on teaching

Chinese and spreading the culture. The saying on the left is from Confucian Analects, the motto of the graduate school I attended, 忠 loyal 信 faith 篤 sincere 敬 courtesy.

I have been teaching and doing some research in Hong Kong, Singapore and mainland China for some time, my first degree is in Psychology and then a master degree in TCSOL (Teaching Chinese to speaker of other language).
